123 TRAVERTINE ROAD

Bear Paw is a stunning residence on 17.46 acres of Montana's pristine landscape set in the midst of Yellowstone Club.

Character, location and views define Bear Paw; massive picture windows frame Eglise, Pioneer, and Lone Peak, as they practically tumble into the impressive great room. Far below, the Tom Weiskopf championship golf course and the Club's amenity-rich base area add to the visual panorama. Its location as a corner lot delivers a high degree of privacy, and rest assured, the spectacular views will always remain untouched, thanks to building restrictions which protect three sides of this incredible property.

It is commonplace at Bear Paw to see deer and elk peacefully traveling among the surrounding pines. This can all be viewed and enjoyed from the home's many outdoor living spaces, which include over 3,000 square feet of decks and patios, an outdoor fireplace and hot tub.

At the same time, the interiors of this dynamic home are equally astonishing – the flooring in the great room is made from reclaimed trestle wood that formerly spanned the Great Salt Lake. The natural-timber hand railing is a work of art in itself, and extraordinary details are everywhere, such as slate flagstone flooring and a redwood wine rack in the pantry. Bear Paw includes over 7,600 square feet of living space that encompasses a great room, four bedrooms and a bunkroom, five full baths, a media room/home theater, two laundry areas, and wet bar, making this home marvelous for social gatherings.

With a rustic grand lodge ambiance enhanced by first-rate modern conveniences, Bear Paw offers a mountain lifestyle experience that is as rare as it is remarkable.
